Special Announcement

On March 2, 2007, I will launch a 10-day sponsorship auction on ebay. The auction will also benefit Capital Hospice (www.capitalhospice.org). My remaining 2007 sponsorship goal of $30,000 will be available in thirty $1,000 blocks. I will be donating 10% of the auction proceeds to Capital Hospice or the winning bidder's hospice preference. To see the ebay auction page, click here.

The auction strengthens my partnership with the Capital Hospice which has resulted in over $4,900 in donations since July 2005. In the off-season, we also agreed that I would wear the Capital Hospice logo on my shirts and caps during events. I will continue to donate 10% of my tournament earnings to the Capital Hospice. Please check out the auction on ebay. Your support – even in the form of adding to the “page views” counter on the auction or forwarding the auction to a friend – is greatly appreciated.

More details on are available on my website's Capital Hospice page and sponsorship page.

Friday, February 23, 2007, 6:15:33 PM

I finished 10th in the Tarheel Tour event at Rivertowne Golf Club in Mt. Pleasant, SC this week. Rivertowne really showed its teeth in the final round with a scoring average of 74.5 for the field. The course started out wet and long until the wind kicked up and dried things out in a ...

The season is officially underway for me on the Tarheel Tour in Mount Pleasant, SC (just outside Charleston). The event is at Rivertowne Golf Club, one of the better courses we will play this year. I finished 4th at this event last year, so I was looking forward to coming back this week. After two ...

A Win in Florida

I've used two Minor League Golf Tour one-day events this week to get ready for the season. I finished 9th in my first one at PGA National - Estates with a round of 71. It was a solid round. Nothing remarkable. Yesterday I shot a 68 at Atlantis Country Club and finished in a ...

Cold Weather Practice in Aiken

Saturday, February 03, 2007, 6:16:27 PM

I've been in Aiken for the last 4 days trying to get in some work during some frigid weather. I guess it's all relative though. I got used to 75 degrees every day in West Palm Beach, FL. I actually have it good compared to my friends in Fairfax, VA with temperatures forecasted to ...

Season Kick-Off Lesson With Jack

Wednesday, January 31, 2007, 8:19:19 AM

I consider my lesson with Jack Lumpkin yesterday to be the unofficial start of my season. I started practicing "for real" about 3 weeks ago down in West Palm Beach, FL. Over the last week, I took a few videos of my swing and saw some familiar tendencies in my lower body stability. I ...
